22,000 KILLED, 678,000 INJURED ON STREETS AND ROADS OF U.S. THIS YEAR

Appalling Figures Laid Before Conference Called by Secretary Hoover.

AIM IS TO CUT TOLL DOWN

Labor and Civic Organizations Will Be Asked to Cooperate to Lessen
Tremendous Loss of Life and Great Economic Waste From Accidents.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—More than 22,000 persons were killed and 678,000 injured in street and highway accidents in the United States in 1924. It was revealed today at a city, highway and police authorities gathered here with representatives of automobile and insurance companies in an effort to lessen the toll of the death by automobiles and the grade crossing.

The total death was placed at 22,500, in round figures.
Labor and civic organizations will cooperate in an effort to lessen the tremendous toll. Secretary of Commerce Hoover called the conference to draft a national policy to guide the cities and states in campaigns to cut down the ever increasing lists of accidents and eliminate street and highway congestion. Six committees have been investigating traffic situations in different states and cities with the cooperation of state highway boards and city officials and will present their recommendations. Starting increases in automobile collisions, grade crossing deaths and tremendous economic waste caused by jammed streets of the cities caused by Hoover to conduct studies of the situation and on the basis of these he will suggest alterations of the present laws.

Lack of uniformity among traffic rules in cities will be one of the principal questions. An attempt will be made to arrive at uniform code for city streets and rural highways. Special attention will be given to the problem of reckless and incompetent drivers. An effort will be made to get all states to pass laws requiring automobile drivers to carry licenses which can be obtained only after passing rigid examinations. Hoover believes that traffic deaths will continue to increase unless some drastic action is taken to relieve the situation. With 12,000,000 cars in active operation on streets designed mostly for horse traffic, the menace to life and property is increasing even faster than the number of vehicles, he believes.

Mrs. Sweetin Denies She Made Confession To Newspaper Girl

By United Press.
MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Dec. 15.—Taking the stand in her own defense today, Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, on trial with Lawrence M. Hight, former pastor, for the murder of her husband in a love pact denied knowledge of the murder confession, bearing her signature.

With the jury out of the room, Mrs. Sweetin was asked whether she made a confession to Miss Sarah Lewis, a Chicago newspaper woman.

Miss Lewis, who preceded Mrs. Sweetin on the stand, wrote an interview on a confession she said Mrs. Sweetin made to her on the night after making formal confession to the murder.

"I never saw her before," Mrs. Sweetin declared, looking at Miss Lewis.
Mrs. Sweetin supplemented this by saying she did not remember any events at the Salem jail where she made her confession.

NAVAL MANEUVERS IN THE PACIFIC WILL NOT BE ABANDONED

Japan Has Not Asked If, Nor Is There Any Indication
It Will.

HAS JUST COMPLETED OWN

White Japanese Press Is Using Hawaldan Visit to Keep Alive Friction. Government Hears 'Realize
There Is Nothing Hostile In It.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

This is the second of a series of two dispatches describing the exact status of the relations between the United States and Japan with especial reference to the maneuvers of the American Navy in the Pacific.

If the maneuvers of the United States Navy had been planned for any other year or occasion they would not have made a ripple on the surface of American relations with Japan. Concomitant as they do after Japanese public opinion has been estranged over the action of Congress in passing restrictive immigration legislation, the Navy's plans are being twisted and distorted into a significance that they do not have.

The Japanese press, or at least that section of it which is keeping alive the friction between the United States and Japan, sees in the maneuvers only a practice for an eventual conflict with Japan. Even some of the peace-loving with a membership of American and Japanese are asking that the maneuvers be cancelled as an evidence of friendship and mutual trust.

But the United States government has no intention of giving up the maneuvers. Japan has not asked it. In fact there is every reason to believe the Tokyo government would not view with favor a voluntary cancellation of the plans of the American government. For one thing, the Japanese have just finished their maneuvers which have been held in the Pacific and they do not wish to see a precedent established which would interfere with the right of any country to exercise its military or naval forces in home waters. The American maneuvers will be held, it is true, at a considerable distance from the continental shores of the United States but Hawaii is an American possession and is by no means close to the Far East.

The only point on which criticism has been raised by some Japanese who admit America's right to maneuver in the vicinity of Hawaii is the talk of plan to have the United States fleet visit Australia. For what purpose, it is asked, does the American Navy go clear across the Pacific to Australia? The answer is that the Japanese fleet recently visited Australia and that the Australian government through its commissioner in the United States indicated a desire to have a visit from the American fleet.

The discussion in Japan of the American maneuvers has not been sanctioned by the Japanese government. In fact, the Navy Department at Tokyo, through its admirals, has commended the American plan and has declared propitious the idea that the maneuvers were anything but the usual practice operations of a big fleet.

President Coolidge has been aware of the situation in Japan and took occasion, therefore, in his recent message to insert a paragraph which while not mentioning Japan now is understood to have been designed especially for the Japanese people. He said:

"While we propose to maintain defensive and supplementary police forces by land and sea, and to train them through inspections and maneuvers upon appropriate occasions in order to maintain their efficiency, I wish every other nation to understand that this does not express any unfriendliness or convey any threat."

MERCURY SETTLES TO 20 DEGREES

The official thermometer this morning showed that the coldest temperature recorded over the week-end was 20 degrees. This mark was attained during both Saturday and Sunday nights.

The cold snap descended Saturday night after a mark of 56 degrees had been registered in the afternoon. A high wind also prevailed, making the cold far more pronounced. The cold snap caused a fall in the Yough River from the highest point it had reached in weeks, 2.70 feet. Much ice was floating on the surface this morning.

Children's First Aid Meet At Lemont an Innovation in Frick Company's Activities

Boys and Girls of Seven to 14
Put Through Tests in Car-ring for Injured.

PART OF EDUCATION WORK

One of the first of its kind to be conducted, a first aid meet for school children—sons and daughters of employees of the Frick Coke Company at Lemont—was held in the school house there Saturday with considerable success. The program was arranged as part of the general educational scheme of the company, originated by Clyde L. Lutton, safety engineer.

The children who participated ranged in age from seven to 14 years and were divided into three divisions, with eight teams in all. Questions were on a class of accidents that happen in and about a mine and the results were considered by those who served as judges, as remarkable.

A great portion of the success of the meet is due to Patrick Kane, mine foreman at the Lemont plant. He has had the children under his tutelage for four months. It is considered the training is also of considerable value in the home and school. Practice sessions have been held nightly and the boys and girls who participate have been intensely interested. In addition to being taught how to care for wounds they are also to tell how the injury might happen and what could be done to prevent it. In that manner they are made safety advocates.

In the first division were three teams of girls ranging from 12 to 14 years. The contest there was close, Team No. 1 winning with a percentage of 91% over Team No. 2, which had 81 per cent. Team No. 3 had 82 per cent.

The personnel of the teams follows:
No. 1—Isabel Sherlock, captain; Theresa Adels, subject; Lena Davis, Isabel Goodwin, Ellen Connors and Katherine Helles.

No. 2—Helen Volar, captain; Helen Yarrup, subject; Irene Good, Mary Stampeck, Mary Knapp and Elizabeth Shuba.

No. 3—Mary K. Connor, captain; Carrie Koko, subject; Elizabeth Hall, Evelyn Helles, Katherine Sherlock and Lida Patterson.

In the second division were two teams, composed of girls ranging from seven to nine years of age. Team No. 1 defeated Team No. 2 in another close contest, 94% per cent to 91 per cent. The personnel of these teams included:

No. 1—Josephine McKittick, captain; Dorothy Patterson, subject; Irma Kelly, Thelma Mills and Eva the Trainer.
No. 2—Josephine Koko, captain; Irene Davis, subject; Dorothy Connor, Margaret Barbarax, Jennie Trainer and Hazel Zehel.

In the third division boys between the ages of 10 and 12 years contested. Team No. 6 was first with 91 per cent. No. 8 was second with 83 and No. 7 was third with 81 per cent.

The members of these teams included:
No. 8—Lawrence Doerley, captain; Jack Doerley, subject; Philip Patterson, Joseph Kelly, Frank Doerley and Andrew Doerley.

No. 6—Thomas Kane, captain; Thomas Hall, subject; Frank Patterson, Tony Conti, Vincent, Tomlin, Edward Connor and Raymond Mills. Philip Harper, captain; Andy Phillips, subject; William Goodwin, Frank Stampeck, William Zehel and Paul Yarrup.

Handsome prizes were given the winning teams and every contestant received an individual prize.

T. L. Doerley is superintendent of the plant. He also acted as recorder for the meet.

The judges were S. B. Hall, mine inspector; J. E. Strubbe, mine inspector; James Shishik, division engineer; Clyde L. Lutton, safety engineer; Bert Leachman, superintendent at Youngstown plant; and W. G. Duncanson, mine extension department of State College.

EMPTY FREIGHT CAR BURNED AT DAWSON

A refrigerator car that was stored on Truck No. 2 of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at the East yards at Dawson was completely destroyed by fire about 11 o'clock Sunday night. Authorities are working on the theory that a person built a fire in the car after he had forced entrance. The car was locked when it was last inspected. It was empty. The cars on each side were badly scorched.

The Dawson fire department, responded to the call but was unable to do anything as the flames had too much of a headway. Nothing but the trucks remained of the car.

CONGRESS PERPLEXED OVER ACTION TO TAKE ON POSTAL SALARY BILL

SPRINGFIELD MEN TAKEN IN RAIDS ON MOONSHINE PLANTS

Six raids were conducted on "moonshiners" over Friday and Saturday by Constables Earl Jones of Dunbar township, Jerry Rittenour of Vanderbilt and Walter Brown of Uniontown. Material evidence was obtained at each place raided. The three constables have been working of late with instructions from the district attorney's office in Uniontown.

Friday, the trio went to Belle Vernon at which place they made raids. Annie Colcock was taken in custody when a raid on her home netted two gallons of moonshine, two barrels of mash, a still and worm. James Colcock's home revealed six and one-half gallons of moonshine and four barrels of mash. A small quantity of liquor, mash, still and worm were found at Belle Vernon and Jack Hermit was taken into custody. The alleged moonshiners gave bail.

Ray Hart of Springfield township, gave $1,500 bail for his appearance before Alderman Robert Collins in Uniontown Tuesday evening when a raid on his home netted five gallons of moonshine. The liquor was found in a coal shed near the home. Three officers took Jesse Piri also of Springfield township, into custody Saturday when two stills and mash were found in his home.

Saturday at midnight the trio raided the Vanderbilt "Country Club" and arrested four persons, who posted forfeits to appear at a hearing Tuesday evening before Alderman Collins of Uniontown.

Soviet Opposes Observations by U. S. War Vessel

By United Press.

MOSCOW, Dec. 15.—Foreign Minister Tchitcherine today telegraphed a most emphatic protest to the American government against the entry of the American "war vessel" the "Heron" into territorial waters of the Soviet union in 1920 and subsequently.

Tchitcherine's note declared the action of the "Heron" in conducting observations near the Chukotsk peninsula, in Emma Bay and Cape Pashin constitutes violation of international law and violation of the Soviet Republic's sovereignty.

Secretary of State Hughes is notified that repetition of such violations of the Soviet union's right will be sternly repressed by the Soviet government.

Three Ways Open But Either One Sure to Provoke Storm of Protest.

SENATE ACTION BLOCKED

Every Attempt to Reach Unanimous
Consent Agreement on Postal Rate
Bill Fails; Publishers Lead Attack
On Increased Rate Proposal.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Congress was confronted today with the difficult necessity of deciding in the near future whether to raise postal rates to pay for increased postal salaries or to increase salaries without increasing rates or to increase neither. Any of the three courses is sure to raise a storm of protest. A large section of the public, led by publishing interests who claim the mail circulation of newspapers would be crippled, if not ruined, is opposed to the rate increase.

Administration leaders in the Senate, which must first vote on the proposition, have so far been blocked in their endeavor to postpone the vote on the postal salaries bill until the postal rate bill can be considered. Every attempt to reach unanimous consent agreement, scheduling the postal salary vote at some time after Christmas has been objected to.

If no agreement is reached the salary bill comes before the Senate after Muscle Shoals and the Sale of Times treaty have been disposed of.

EVANGELIST HAS LEG BROKEN BY FALL; STAR- JUNCTION SERVICE OFF

Rev. W. L. Wayman of New Marlborough, W. Va., who has been assisting Rev. S. W. Bryan in conducting evangelistic services at the Perryopolis Methodist Episcopal Church for the past three weeks, suffered a broken right leg just before the knee late Saturday night when he fell. Rev. Wayman had attended the basketball games at the Perryopolis High School and was returning and other bits of wreckage that were carried ashore last night were the first indications that the ship had gone down. All the fury of the gale of the 70-mile gale had subsided today.

The evangelist was taken to the home of a physician nearby where the limb was given treatment. Sunday morning, he was taken to the hospital at Lendale, W. Va., by H. M. Wade of Perryopolis who was accompanied by Dr. R. P. Kanerker.

Rev. Wayman was to have presided at the Star Junction Methodist Episcopal Church this evening. But the service has been cancelled. The evangelist was to have conducted a mothers' day service and a union service yesterday at the Perryopolis church.

Millman Defense Opens in Liquor Trial in Court

The case of A. A. Millman, charged with disposing of part of the John T. Hoover liquor stock, which is being tried in Uniontown, may come to an end Wednesday. The Commonwealth rested at 12 o'clock today, after 30 witnesses from Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg and other places, as far north as Kentucky, had been heard.

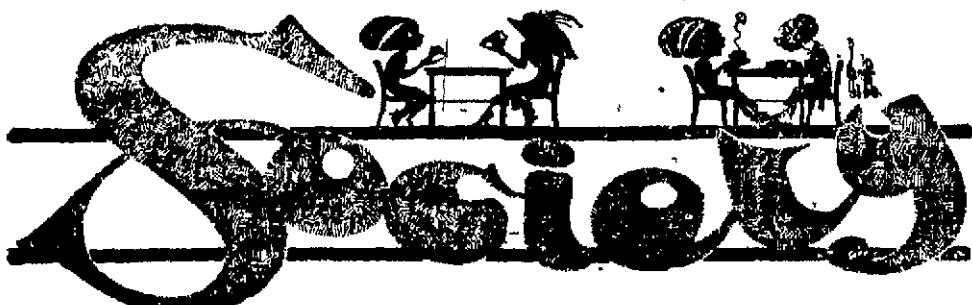

Among the last witnesses called were telephone operators at the Hotel Schenley, Pittsburgh, where Millman had quarters, to show conversations with Millman in Fayette county and elsewhere at the time the liquor was moved.

The defense in the Albert A. Millman liquor case started this afternoon. It is claimed by Millman that a man named Williams, a prominent broker in liquor certificates in Philadelphia was the man who arranged the Hoover liquor deal. Williams, the defense asserts, closed his office immediately after news of the arrest of the truck drivers and the seizure of the cases. Williams has been absent since then although a general search has been made for him. Millman merely came to Pittsburgh to carry on the deal on Williams' orders. He never attempted to conceal his identity.

Habits of Silence Inbred
(In the old days Oldway children were taught to be seen and not heard, for to be heard might have meant death. When the scream of the hoist or other strange noises came from the woods, they snuggled closer, but kept all the quieter, for the noise which they heard was liable to be the signal of a prowling enemy, and to have cried would have been to have revealed the hiding place of the family or tribe.

Thus through the thousands of years that the Indians lived in constant danger of attack, the habit of silence was bred in the blood. Even now the Indian youngster will take a severe rebuke without a sound, and even come up smiling.

One Important Ring in Place of Collection

It is now considered smart to wear one important ring in place of the many rings with which women of fashion have heretofore loaded their fingers. The fashion, asserts a writer in the New York Times has brought out some attractive designs using large emeralds, sapphires, topaz, cut intaglio, often with a central diamond. These rings are designed to be worn on the ring finger and are often set with a large central stone surrounded by smaller stones.

In the less expensive rings are seen precious stones—bloodstone, moonstone, tiger's eye, cat's paw, lapis lazuli, and now and then a roll of old time style in a ring of gold or silver whose large surface is a wide field of conventional pattern is set in relief.

Some quiet little rings are also worn and they are set in diamonds or pearls. These rings are often set with a small central stone surrounded by smaller stones.

23,822 Lives Lost in Coal Mines of the United States In the 13 Years, 1911-1923

Coal Dust Responsible for Greater Part Declares Director Bain.

BUREAU OF MINES IN 1924

Made Active Effort to Increase Safety in All Mining Operations, Particularly the Introduction of Rock Drilling to Stop Spread Explosions.

Accidents in the coal mines of the United States, with their consequent loss of life, property, and production, have been a constant and a too frequent feature of the results of modern research, which have demonstrated clearly the principal causes and definite means of minimization of such accidents. Director H. Foster Bain of the Bureau of Mines points out in his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior.

For the 13 years, 1911 to 1923, inclusive, the bureau's records show 23,822 lives lost through all classes of accidents at bituminous mines in the United States. Explosions of gas and coal dust caused 5,187 deaths, or 14 per cent of the total. Most of the larger explosions were propagated through the mine workings by coal dust chiefly and therefore coal dust was responsible for the greater part of the loss of life. This extension of an explosion throughout a mine can be stopped even if all initial explosions are not prevented.

Despite the general good will of miners, mine operators, state inspectors, and manufacturers of explosives and machinery, the bureau's recommendations of the bureau have not been adopted in the mines as rapidly as it is necessary to stop the loss of lives to be stopped, the report declares.

Although there has been real progress, as in the decreased loss of life due to accidents from explosives, the death rate from gas and dust explosions is now as great as ever. One state, Ohio, following a mine disaster that caused the loss of 171 lives, has adopted every practical method of preventing or halting gas and dust explosions, and is having these methods introduced in the mines as rapidly as possible. An active campaign of field demonstrations is necessary to bring home to those who either state the danger that has become so familiar as to be frequently overlooked and to show that effective precautionary methods are known and available.

The dominant features of the bureau's efforts during the year to increase safety in mining have been the development of international cooperation with the Mine Department of Great Britain for research looking to the reduction of mine accidents; and intensive campaign for the adoption of rock drilling as a preventive of gas and dust explosions in bituminous coal mines; and an extensive study relative to the safe use of electricity in coal mines.

The Bureau of Mines considers that the coal mines of the country in past years followed the principle of rock dusting the mines as a means of preventing the spread of explosions. Many large mine disasters would not have occurred and hundreds of lives could have been saved. In view of the large number of deaths from explosions during and since 1922, the bureau urges that the practice of rock dusting be adopted as soon as practicable in all bituminous mines in which dust constitutes a hazard.

Ever since its establishment, the bureau has strongly urged the use of "permittable" explosives in all coal mines where there is any hazard from gas and dust, and the amount of "permittable" used has steadily increased. However, while this increase has been steady, the replacement of other explosives by "permittable" has not been as rapid as it should be, in view of the known effectiveness and greater security of "permittables."

During the fiscal year the bureau studied the possibilities of radio as a means of establishing communication between miners trapped underground following mine fires and explosions and rescue parties on the surface. The results give some promise of the possible development of a satisfactory system of communication through what is known as the radio, which utilizes metal piping, wiring, ear trunks, and other permanent metal equipment as carriers of the voice.

An onerous safety campaign in the oil industry has been instituted by the bureau, with the cooperation of producing companies. Metal mines in the United States have unsatisfactory ventilation, with the result that miners frequently work under a suffocating condition that materially reduces their efficiency. It is the bureau's policy to improve the ventilation and humidity of the mines.

Work is being done to improve the ventilation of the mines. A portable carbonizer recently designed by the bureau after extensive investigations, should improve the results in the attempts to clean the air of the mine.

The use of cooling systems in vapor-light tanks in which crude oil is stored should check evaporation losses of gasoline, which amount annually to three or four per cent of the stocks accumulated during the winter season, and whose value runs into millions of dollars. Methods by which enormous volumes of gasoline now lost in the ordinary petroleum refining processes may be recovered by condensation of still vapors are outlined in reports recently published by the bureau.

A process for making sponge iron has been developed by the bureau. In making this work, the object was to develop a process whereby sponge iron might be made cheaply for use as a metallurgical reagent, as, for example, for the precipitation of copper from its sulfate solutions. However, the development of a process by which sponge iron may be made cheaply from iron ore and low-grade coal and afterwards converted into iron and steel products by melting in the electric furnace would be especially important to the Pacific coast region of the United States, as that region is remote from the largest iron and steel making centers, but can use cheap electric energy instead of the expensive coke that would otherwise be necessary for iron and steel production.

A new experimental iron blast-furnace has been completed and blown in at Minneapolis, Minn. This furnace is an improvement on the former furnaces, as regards its mechanical features. It is expected that with this furnace it may be possible to conduct experiments and carry on investigation work which will give much valuable information, as regards the fundamental chemical reactions which govern the successful production of pig iron in the blast-furnace. Moreover, it is proposed to use the furnace in connection with experimental work on the production of spiegeleisen and ferromanganese from certain manganese iron ores whose smelting has offered difficulties.

Since the United States has enormous reserves of these ores, the production of their successful smelting is of great importance to the iron industry.

A laboratory for radium research, with special reference to the study of the chemical effect of radium has been established in Washington. Important studies in the operation of industrial kilns manufacturing brick, tile, and other heavy clay products have been made possible as the result of a study of the burning products of such kilns.

At the request of the Commission of Gold and Silver Inquiry of the United States Senate, a study of the possibility of finding new uses for silver has been undertaken by the bureau. The purpose of the study is to increase the demand for the metal, and thereby aid the western silver mining industry, which has for some years past faced unfavorable economic conditions.

Why They "Joined Up" for Better or Worse

Little did I think what an interesting task I had set myself when I set out to inquire why some wives and husbands had married.

Let us get over the unpleasant part first. I asked a young wife why she had married, since she apparently took little interest in her husband and home.

"Oh, I wanted to be free. Mother wouldn't let me have a husband, and it was ten minutes into coming home at night there was as much fuss as if the house had caught fire. So I escaped with the first 'boy' who asked me. He's not much of a catch, either."

Incidentally, that woman finds it impossible to do exactly what she likes even when married. Her husband "switches the clock" when she's out, too!

Next a man told me he married his wife because he was sorry for her. She was unhappy at home and he couldn't bear to see her cry. Now he sees what a fool he's been, and from what I gather it is he who makes her cry now.

It is to be hoped that no other man will come along and pity her.

"Why did I marry?" echoed another man. "Why, because she is the sweetest, best and dearest little girl in the world, and I just couldn't have lived without her." Pleasant hearing words like that, isn't it?—Vern Leslie, in Edinburgh Scotsman.

No Change at All
"You've heard of a person being in a quandary, haven't you?" Peterson asked.

"Sure," replied Brown. "Why?"

"Well, I just had a letter from an old friend, and I'm in one. He's been in rather bad health for some time, so the other day he went to see a doctor, and the doctor advised him to take two or three months' complete rest. That's where the quandary comes in. He's been waiting for the government for 15 years and doesn't know where to look for a more comfortable rest."

The Place for Speed
A lady passenger on a coasting steamer sought out the captain to ask: "Why are we going so slow?"

"This is a shallow part of the bay," explained the master. "I can't ship."

"But," said the lady, "I should think you'd be slower in the deeper part."

"That's more danger of drowning."
